NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON APPLICATION OF MATHEMATICAL TOOLS IN SOCIAL SCIENCES AND SCIENCES (ONLINE)

Advent of informational technology is a boon for all researchers working in various fields of humanities, social sciences and sciences. It has advanced the methods of data collection, processing and visualization. The data handling and interpretation requires a sound knowledge of statistical tools and mathematical modeling. Multiple facet analysis and interpretations for utmost clarity can be developed using traditional statistical tools supported by modern mathematical models. No research has been considered complete until and unless it employs proper statistical tool, thus sound knowledge of statistics and mathematical modelling is a must for qualitative or quantitative research. This online conference envisages recent advances in the field of mathematical modeling in social sciences and sciences and will nurture budding researchers by providing a platform to young minds to explore and learn from the peer group.

The students were asked about the problems they face in their daily life. solution was suggested for the problems like establishing a mentor-mentee relationship between the students and teacher. following are the professional proposed solution -

Q1. A student wanted to study in the ~~university~~ college across the state. she was advised to look for the college which has the better faculty and infrastructure. she should try to get comfortable, helping her to explore opportunities of her parents.

- A student was found as his mother suffers from anxiety because his father was alcoholic. He didn't know what to do.
- He was advised to talk to his parents and tell them about the problem he is facing. This way he will also get to know their point of view. He can also ask his father for some counselling advice which will help him to get rid of his alcohol issue.
